SHOOT CRAPS ON THE ROYAL LAWN

Negroes Called To Entertain King Edward—Play Favorite Game.

London, June 24.—To entertain Prince Eddy, grandson of the king, whose ninth birthday it is, the king commanded the services of a company of American negro actors at Buckingham palace this afternoon. The negroes were delighted at the opportunity of appearing before royalty and the swarm of aristocrats who were invited to attend the garden party. The negroes sang and cake-walked on a parquette floor laid on the grass. The royal family, the prince and princess of Wales and their children sat on lawn chairs. The negroes sang "The Castle on the Nile" and "The Jonah Man," while one woman did a solo dance. The company sang in chorus after the cake walk. The leader of the negro troop said tonight: "It was the first time I ever appeared in the presence of royalty. The king looks a jolly fellow. I hope we entertained them as much as they entertained us." Departing from the usual custom, the visitors were not introduced to their majesties after the performance. Two members of the chorus were unable to withstand temptation even for the brief while they were at Buckingham palace, and played craps for six pence on the royal lawn.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL ENDS PECULIAR STRIKE

Decides That Man Discharged for Being Drunk Shall Be Given One More Chance.

Chicago, June 24.—John Mitchell, head of the United Mine Workers of America and the man in whose care the destiny of 400,000 people was placed during the big strike in the anthracite coal fields, was called upon to settle a walkout of miners which resulted from a plain drunk and involved seventy-five men. The labor leader gave the matter as serious consideration as he did the problems that confronted him when much more was at stake. He succeeded in ending the strike and adjusting the differences in a manner satisfactory to all parties involved. Down in Streator one of the leaders in a certain mine was discharged on the charge of being drunk and of bringing liquor into the mine. The men stood by their leader and walked out. President Mitchell met with the members of the Illinois Coal Operators' association yesterday and took up the case. He decided that the discharged man should be reinstated, with the proviso that the next offense would mean his dismissal without further recourse.

He almost lost his power of speech, and of late years his conversation consisted of guttural sounds, resembling those of an animal. He died suddenly, with mouth and stomach filled with grass. United States Senator Robert J. Gamble of Yankton induced the war department to attempt to bring the river back to the town. The engineers will build a series of parallel dikes perpendicular to the Nebraska bank, hoping that this will start the river to cutting the sand bar.

ASK CONSUL'S REMOVAL

Americans in Chihuahua Fail to Make Out a Case.

Washington, June 24.—The state department has received by telegram from a number of Americans residing in Chihuahua, Mexico, just how many is not known, a copy of a resolution adopted by them and directed to the secretary of state, asking the removal of W. W. Mills, United States consul at that point. The resolutions were not at all specific in their allegations, and did not afford the state department any proper ground for action. Following the usual custom the department sent a copy of the resolution to the consul with an invitation to explain, of which he availed, and as things now stand the department is pretty well satisfied that the complaints are not well founded. Perhaps further details of the mass meeting will come by mail, in which event the case may be re-opened.

STEEL BRIDGE AT COURT STREET

COUNCIL DECIDES TO CALL FOR BIDS FOR STRUCTURE.

OTHER ESTIMATES INCORRECT

No Action Taken Against Fire Cracker or Wine Room Ordinance, Both of Which Hold Over.

There is still hope for a steel bridge at Court street.

After hearing a letter from H. S. Wetherell, general agent of the Elkhart Bridge company of Chicago, the common council last evening decided to reconsider their action favoring a wooden bridge and to advertise for bids for both steel and wooden structures. In his letter Mr. Wetherell expressed the opinion that the prices which the city had been quoted for a steel bridge were too high and for a wooden bridge too low.

Mr. Wetherell gave it as his opinion that the estimate of $22,000—made by the Worden company of Milwaukee—was for the most expensive type of bridge which could be constructed. He believed that slight alterations in plan would reduce the cost to $18,000 at the outside without reducing the utility of the bridge. By the temporary substitution of a plank for a concrete roadway further reduction of $2,000 might be effected.

Price Quoted Inaccurate His opinion that a wooden bridge could not be built for $6,000 was heartily concurred in by those aldermen who recalled the bill of $5,000 for repairs on the Milwaukee street bridge. As Mr. Wetherell had personally inspected the site of the bridge and had taken into consideration all requirements, after consultation with Alderman Lowell and others, his opinion was taken as of much weight.

It was finally determined to advertise for bids for both types of structures, the privilege being reserved of rejecting all bids if too steep to answer the city's purposes. In advertising certain general specifications, such as width of roadway, length of span, weight limits, and river bottom soundings are to be given in order to make the estimates sufficiently uniform to enable some comparison to be made. There will be no limit as to the class of bridge to be erected.

Can Fire Crackers Some persons asked one of the aldermen to present an order prohibiting the firing of cannon crackers on the business streets, and he did so. He also voted favoring it, but he was alone in his action.

"Let 'em tear loose," said one of the aldermen. The others agreed and the small boy will be allowed at least one more royal celebration. After the fourth of the ordinance prohibiting the sale of firecrackers of more than half an inch in diameter will probably be passed. As the dealers have already stocked up for this year it was not considered just to pass the ordinance at this time.

Wine Stall Ordinance An ordinance barring wine rooms and stalls in saloons was presented, given its first two readings, and allowed to lie over. There was a slight protest on the ground that the licenses will be granted for the coming year when the council next meets, and it was questioned whether it would not be wise to pass the ordinance in time to warn the saloon keepers of the changes they must make in their places. It was agreed after a little discussion that the proprietors have had sufficient warning of what they must expect, and the ordinance was placed on its passage.

Can Official Sell? Evidently the section of the charter which withholds a public officer from using his influence in that capacity for his own pecuniary gain is to be tested to the extreme. A bill submitted by the school board from E. B. Helmstreet for $1.90 was rejected on the ground that Mr. Helmstreet is a member of the school board. An opinion was requested from the city attorney regarding Mr. Helmstreet's legal right to sell supplies to the city while holding a city office.

Mayor Wilson presented a report of his visit to the seventh annual meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. From opinions he heard presented there he regarded Janesville's lime stone well suited for paving purposes. He believed that the purchase of stone for paving streets would involve the payment of excessive costs. He advised retaining membership in the league.

No bills will be requested for coal for public buildings for the coming winter. "We will get the same price from all dealers if we advertise," said one alderman. The matter will be left with the public building committee, who may be enabled to secure better prices through negotiations with the different coal handlers.

To Raise Money Important financial action was taken. The mayor was instructed to borrow $1,500 for the school fund, which has been overdrawn to pay the teachers' salaries. The balance due Brown & Connors on their paving contracts was ordered paid. Bonds to the amount of $1,893.98 were reported sold for the Franklin and Wall street improvements. $100 was transferred to the city treasurer to provide him with funds to pay bills which he usually pays from his own pocket. This is to cover such bills as freight and express charges, postage for city use, and other small items.

SCHALLER OUT OF RICHARDSON PLAY

Holder of Medal Put Out of Contest in First Round by Fred J. Baker, One Up.

Al. Schaller, for two years holder of the Richardson medal, was defeated by Fred Baker yesterday in the most spectacular game of the first round of medal play.

This was only one of the several surprises developed at the St. Louis links. Baker has been putting up strong play this year and aided by his handicap was able to put the former medal winner, who has not yet reached his accustomed pace, out of the running. Without the handicap the result would have been a tie.

Seven of the eight pairs played off their matches, the winners being as follows. The figure in parenthesis represents the handicap:

Leo Brownell (4) won from A. M. Valentine (12) by default.
H. S. McGiffin (6) from H. G. Carter (6) 4 up and 2 to play.
O. Sutherland (6) from H. R. King (10) 5 up and 2 to play.
F. J. Baker (4) from Al. Schaller (scratch) 1 up.
George Baumann (7) from E. A. Hyde (8) 5 up and 4 to play.
Charles Dunn (6) from George Brownell (8) 5 up and 4 to play.
J. P. Baker (6) from Charles Schaller (6) 4 up and 3 to play.
C. C. MacLean (6) and C. Acht-erburg (6) will play later in the week.

Following the medal play a ladies' approaching and putting contest was held. The prize winners were Mrs. H. R. King, who captured a golf spoon for first, and Mrs. J. P. Baker, whose trophy was a Mexican leather chateleine bag.

FRESHMEN GIVEN A HARD TRIAL

Coach O'Dea Gave His Crews an Excellent Tryout Yesterday.

Telegraphic reports from Poughkeepsie show that the crews are being kept hard at it by Coach O'Dea and from the betting announced last being coupled with Pennsylvania at 5 to 2 to win and even money for second place. Cornell is the favorite at 1 to 2 to win and 1 to 6 for place with Columbia second choice at 2 to 1 and 2 to 5 for place. Pennsylvania is quoted at 3 to 2 for place while Georgetown and Sprague at 12 to 1 and 10 to 1 respectively to win.

Beef and Brawn. Coach Hanlon of the Columbia crew has made the statement that there is beef and brawn enough in the Wisconsin boat to heat any crew on the river. Courtney of Cornell, has seen the Badgers row and since which time he has announced that the only crew he fears is the Columbia eight. Pennsylvania is having bad luck with its crew owing to the bad weather and the third stroke of the Quakers for the present season played out last night, having cramps in his arms.

Freshmen Work Yesterday the Freshmen were given their hardest try out and did well considering the weather and condition of the river. The varsity shell went up the river for three miles this afternoon and came down in twenty-eight, closing up to thirty for a half mile. They are rowing strong with good body action and excellent blade work. Coach O'Dea seems satisfied with the men and will give them easy work from now until the race.

DOG TAX WOULD INCREASE FUNDS

Communication by a Dog Owner on Means to Raise City Finances.

To the Editor: It may, perhaps be opportune at this time to call attention to the fact that our city treasury is becoming very low. In fact I have heard it said that the treasury is well nigh empty. It is a deplorable state of affairs. It is a disgrace to such a municipality as Janesville that such is the fact. This being the truth, the aldermen might better turn their attention toward replenishing it rather than stooping to small details. Let them look about and see how best these deficiencies could be made up so that the treasury may once more be able to pay the regular bills brought to it for payment for work done.

Many Methods There are many methods which might be employed. I might refer to the poll tax which stands on our city records as having been passed and I might also refer to the dog license fee. This is the most tangible in my mind and one which should be speedily attended to. It is written in the city ordinances as having been passed, having been enforced for a time and now through common usage is abandoned. It made just provisions for the keeping of dogs and the payment of the license fee and what should be done with the money collected. Scarcely a city of the size of Janesville but has such a tax and scarcely such a city that has it in operation does not derive some benefit from it.

The Provisions This ordinance known as Ordinance 94, passed October 27, 1882 provides that no dog or bitch shall be at large on the streets unless they bear a brass tag which shows that the license has been obtained by paying the city treasurer the sum of $1 for the dog or $3 for the bitch. The ordinance further provides that any dog or bitch thus found running at large without tag shall be shot for violation of the ordinance. A fine of from $1 to $5 may be imposed.

Explicit Enough This ordinance is certainly explicit enough. It not only states the exact provisions but it also gives the penalties for not following it and adhering to the text. This law is merely a dead letter. It could be re-established without any particular trouble and the revenue from it could be used to pay the running expenses of the city.

Marty Dogs Janesville is overrun with dogs. From one side of the river to the limits, to the other bank to the limits there are any number of dogs. Good dogs, bad dogs and indifferent dogs. These snapping, snarling curs are on hand at every turn. They run in the street without any restraint, and one block of the city at times when all of the canines are at home, can boast of some twenty.

Rabies Feared Rabies are much feared in other cities. Rabies have been known to exist in Janesville. It is not long ago that a dog went mad in First ward and ran riot for several hours, biting and snapping at dogs and children. With a dog license this danger would be lessened, as only the better class of dogs would be left, the mongrels, the curs would all be wiped out. This is a fact worth considering.

Fighting Dogs It is not so many weeks ago that a fight occurred on Main street, between two bull dogs. Persons passing were forced to run out of the way to avoid being bitten. Later a large dog ran riot in a hotel, and guests and clerks made haste to get out of the way. While this would not be done away with by a dog tax. These are a few facts worth considering. When the council needs money let them remember this tax and once more re-establish it in full force and give the police instruction to see that it is enforced. (Signed.) A DOG OWNER.

DOINGS AT THE RAILWAY CENTER

Persons of Employees in the Local Yards and Along the Line.

Arrangements are being made for a meeting of executive officers of the western roads to consider the passenger rate situation, the chairman of the Western Passenger Association having certified to them the fact that the general passenger agents have failed to reach any agreement for the restoration of rates. Fears are entertained that the Wisconsin Central may not attend and the opinion is general that it will simply stand pat and let the other roads work out their own salvation as best they can. The Wisconsin Central is now where it can afford to be independent and require the other roads to go to it if they want any settlement of the existing troubles. The impression prevails that it will not yield an inch until all the grievances from which it has suffered for a long time and borne with remarkable patience are all redressed and it is assured some kind of equality for all time to come. A settlement of the existing troubles can be reached only by making it important concessions.

The Wisconsin and Michigan road is to be extended eight miles next year from Norway Dickinson county, Mich., to Iron Mountain, and possibly farther north to Menominee range points. The company expects to have the new line to Norway completed and trains running in sixty or ninety days. Excellent progress is being made with the work of extending the road to Norway and Quinnesec, and construction trains are working in the vicinity of Marinette. The south branch rails will be laid into Norway some time next week. The company will build north to Iron Mountain and make a strong bid for the ore handling business at that point, as well as other of the mining settlements in Dickinson county.

There was a meeting in Chicago today of the special committee of traffic officials recently selected to consider the export rates through gulf ports and by way of north Atlantic ports. One of the traffic officials expresses the opinion that the solution of the problem will have to be found in some territorial allotment among the lines which will give to each the traffic from the section where it can haul the cheapest.

The passenger rate troubles of the Chicago-St. Paul lines have been formally handed over to the executive officers of those lines. Arrangements are being made for the conference of the executive officers, and their decision is expected to be reached in a short time.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, June 24, 1863.—The rebels occupied Chambersburg this morning. Our cavalry pickets are now five miles this side of that place. Our troops under General Knipe, at Chambersburg, have fallen back to the main body. The authorities believe the rebels to be in considerable force at Chambersburg.

The following incident has been related and vouched for by the informant: Peter Apple, of Oakland, Ind., was lately recruited for the eleventh Indiana, and took part in the attempt to storm one of the Vicksburg batteries. The rebel fire was so destructive that our army recoiled. Apple, the raw recruit, didn't see the backward movement and kept going ahead until he came right up to one of the rebel guns, caught a gunner by the collar, and brought him within our lines, saying, "Boys, why didn't you come on? Every fellow might have got one." We have heard of no more daring act of bravery than this little incident since the war began.

The Twelfth Wisconsin regiment

INDIANS HELD LONG IN JAIL

Dane County Sheriff Reaps a Rich Harvest from His Red Brother.

Indians enough to start a tribe, eighteen of them in all, were arraigned yesterday in the federal court at Madison before Judge Bunn, and discharged. They had been arrested in the northern part of the state months ago for trivial offenses, brought all the way to Madison by United States Marshal Lewiston or his deputies, held in jail at federal expense for months, some having been in jail as long as 140 days, and when they were arraigned they were allowed to go free. Some were discharged after they had pleaded guilty to the trivial offenses charged. Judge Bunn, even though they admitted their guilt, discharged them without imposing any penalty, his reason being perhaps the consideration of the fact that they had already been detained longer than the offense warranted, some a dozen times too long.

Much Sympathy

This happening has caused a deal of sympathy and inquiry to be let loose all over the state—sympathy for the poor Indian and inquiry as to the methods of the federal officers in the treatment of the wards of the nation, who may be charged with getting drunk, with selling perhaps a pint of liquor to an Indian friend or with carrying a pint of liquor upon a reservation. It is wonderful what is the method of procedure. Why are the Indians kept in the county jail for many months before given a hearing in court? How much does the peculiar method net the federal government in expense accounts and the mileage of the marshal or deputies? A satisfactory answer to this question is difficult, seemingly impossible, to obtain.

The System

The sheriff of Dane county receives $3.50 a week from the government for the board of prisoners. This is more than is paid for the board of city prisoners or for state prisoners. City prisoners are charged at 33 cents a day or $3 a week. The state and county prisoners are paid for by the county under the contract with the sheriff, who receives $3,000 a year for the board of prisoners and a salary of $2,500 a year for services as an officer. A few years ago the sheriff received $3 a week from the board of state and county prisoners, all being paid by the county. Within the past few years the system has been changed from fees to salary, but the board of state and county prisoners is said to pay less than $2 a week under the present system. Accurate calculation upon this matter is impracticable.

Indians Mad

Tuesday morning when the Indians were released, they were hot with indignation because they had been held in custody during the most profitable season of the year to them. One large Indian said his treatment was the rankest kind of injustice. He was ordinarily able to earn hundreds of dollars fishing in the season that he had been held in jail, but now he was out all his time. He said the offense with which he was charged was so trivial that it made no difference to him whether he pleaded guilty or not and that he preferred to plead guilty because he knew if he did so he would be discharged by the judge. He said that if he pleaded not guilty and tried to establish his innocence he would perhaps be held in jail for months longer and preferred to take the means to get back to his work.

Educational Statistics.

Oregon spends for the education of children $12 a year per capita; Colorado, $11; Illinois, $11; California, $10; while Kentucky expends only $3.32; South Carolina, $1.39; Mississippi, $2.06. The Northern states, on the average, expend nearly five times as much for education, without counting the universities, as the Southern states.

Great Combine in Milk.

The ten thousand dairy farmers of New York, with $25,000,000 capital, will undertake to buy out all the dealers, wholesale and retail, in New York city. They will undertake to restrain trade, but their operations, being limited to one state, will not come under control of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

SOUTHWEST LIMA

Southwest Lima, June 23.—The people of this neighborhood were amply entertained last Thursday by a Flag Raising and Picnic given by the school. And not only the people of this immediate vicinity but ones who came from quite a distance were there to enjoy the event. Some of the guests were the G. A. R. the W. R. C. and the band from Milton. The school teacher, Miss Green had stated that the flag would be hoisted about ten o'clock. She was true to her word, and at that time the stars and stripes were mounted upon a neat flag pole standing in the school yard. The band played patriotic pieces and the G. A. R. gave three cheers for "Old Glory." After this the crowd dispersed to Palmer Grove where the dinner and program were to be given. A platform of boards and seats for spectators was erected there, and the former was very prettily decorated with ferns and flowers. The program given by the children was very well rendered and showed the result of much care on the part of the teacher. The drills were especially interesting, and were given without a single break. Features of this program were addresses given by Superintendent Antisdal and Rev. North of Milton, and Rev. Longfield of Johnstown delivered the prayer. After this the company sat down to a bountiful dinner prepared by the ladies of the district. On the whole it was a memorable event and everyone present seemed to enjoy themselves. Head

Hurt So Badly Was Nearly Crazy.

Had no Sleep—Could Hardly Lie Down.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Permanently Cured Me.

"A year ago I suffered from extreme nervous stomach trouble. I was afraid of everything, could not bear to hear singing or music and reading or hearing of a death nearly brought on my own. I could not sleep or hardly lie down, the back of my head hurt me so badly I nearly went crazy. My shoulders hurt and the least thing I did would bring on an attack of extreme nervousness. There were times when I would have a lump in my throat and my mouth would be so dry I could hardly speak. I was in despair until I began to take Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I have taken in all twelve bottles and consider myself permanently cured. My home doctor has since remarked on my healthy appearance and said he wished he could say his medicine helped me. He knows it was Dr. Miles' Nervine. We are never without the Anti-Pain Pills and consider our medicines household remedies. I cannot say enough for the Nervine, because in addition to my own case my daughter, who was out of school for a long time because of St. Vitus' dance, was completely cured by eight bottles. She is now feeling fine and going to school every day. We thank you for your kindness and will never stop singing the praises of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine."—Mrs. C. E. Ring, Lima, O.

Summer Wash Goods

Here is an opportunity to buy them much under the regular prices. Pre-inventory sales held by the various Chicago wholesale houses within the past week was the means of securing a choice collection of desirable styles in their wash goods, such as fine lace stripe organdies, dimities, batiste, etc., in such colorings as pink, blue, lavender, also white grounds with black and colored figures, and black ground with white and colored figures. About fifty pieces in the lot, regular values of which would be up to 35¢ per yard. All on sale at a choice per yard. . . . 18¢

Other special value lines of wash goods at 5 cents, 10 cents and 12½ cents, all of which represent higher cost lines.

Skirts and Suits

This end of the store is a busy place every day, and the present is a very good time to buy a suit as prices are down to a low basis. Skirts of Brillantines, Etamines, Crashes, &c., are selling well and you will find all the new ideas here.

June Millinery

Miss O'Neil in her visit to the Chicago market last week secured some choice styles suitable for the summer season, including pattern hats as well as a big line of outing hats, and the present display of late novelties is worth a visit to see. Take a short cut and walk through.

WHY PETER IS CONFIDENT

Peter I's first manifesto as king of Serbia has a note of confidence. He expresses thanks "to the favor of God and the will of the people" for being called to the throne; hopes that the powers will hall his succession as "an event which will give Serbia an era of repose, progress and order" promises to respect the rights of the people; calls upon the officials, civil military, and ecclesiastical, to retain their offices and perform their functions; says he will banish from his memory all acts against him committed in the past forty years; announces as his motto "the sacred cross and cherished liberty," and speaks of his assurance of the attachment of the army and the church to his dynasty.

On the surface of things, all this is hopeful. Other monarchs of Serbia, including the one who was assassinated a few days ago, started out with fair promises and confident hopes. But Peter, in one very important particular controls the situation. He has the governments of Russia and Austria on his side. The expressions of Nicholas II. and Francis Joseph make this pretty plain. Their congratulations which have just been given, mean much in the present conditions. The Serbian populace, whether they feel kindly toward Peter or not, know that he has at least two very strong patrons.

An assault on Peter or any serious menace against his authority in Serbia, would probably send Russian or Austrian troops, or both, to Belgrade. This is an eventuality which will impress itself upon the minds of the Peter's people. "It is a situation, also, which will temper the governments of the United States and England, however much they may condemn assassination, to recognize facts. The ministers of both these nations will accept things as they are, and establish relations with Peter's court. His rule will receive the world's acquiescence. A week after he actually begins his reign the diplomatic machinery at Belgrade will run as smoothly as if it had entered power in the conventional way. With his two big neighbors on his side, as they are, Peter I. has a reasonable assurance of as quiet a reign as is possible under any circumstances in the volcanic conditions of his country.

FIRST MESSAGE.

Unless some unforeseen event, such as extremely severe weather, causes an unlooked for delay it seems probable that President Roosevelt will celebrate the Fourth by sending a message direct to Manila by the all-American cable. The cable company asserted that it would have the cable ready for business by July 4th, 1903, and it looks as though it were going to make its promise good. The cable is already down from Manila to Guam, the second link from Guam to Midway island was completed Friday and the last link from Midway island to Honolulu, is being laid out at the rate of about 200 miles a day. At this rate it will take about six days to reach Honolulu and the company will then have over a week in which to get things into working order. The speed with which the cable project was carried out and the lack of interest which it has aroused is in significant contrast to the laying of the first Atlantic cable less than 40 years ago. That the installation of this means of communication will have profound, though perhaps not spectacular, effects is a practical certainty. Primarily of commercial importance, its strategic and political possibilities are not to be overlooked.

A young man just graduated at Columbia and worth $25,000,000 has announced that his business in life will be to improve the condition of the poor. The name of this original young citizen is Marcellus Hartley Dodge, and the result of his labors will be noted with interest.

VICE PRESIDENT.

To judge by some of the names that are mentioned for the republican vice presidential nomination every consideration except the only one of any importance, that of fitness to be president in case of accident, seems to be taken into account. There never was any adequate excuse for nominating second rate men for the vice presidency, and there is still less in these days, not only because the possibilities have lately been illustrated but it is needless to consider geographical or fractional elements as sufficiently strong enough to carry the country whether his running mate comes from Oregon, Texas or even New York. There are no rival factions to be placated and no pledges to be fulfilled. The republican party is free to select a man in whom the nation would have confidence if called on to assume executive responsibilities. As a matter of fact the tickets of both parties have been weakened rather than strengthened every time they have undertaken to ignore fitness as a factor in the choice of their vice presidential candidates.

It is said that at a dinner recently given Sir George White make the remark that together Great Britain and the United States could lick the world. This is true enough but it is not necessary to taste of the wine to tell all one knows.

Dear Brother aldermen when next we meet why not try and raise some money by enforcing that dog tax or at least taking up seriously the question of poll tax. You are a reform council and the treasury is empty. Remember that.

Porto Rico is shipping to the United States nearly $1,000,000 worth of products monthly and buying about the same amount in this country. A commerce of $24,000,000 a year with the island is a fine exhibit, and it is only a beginning.

The Phoenixville (Pa.) Republican asks to be informed how it is that nobody can be found willing to admit that he makes anything on a load of anthracite costing the consumer $5.50 a ton, though its price at the mines mouth is only $1.50 a ton.

Not a passenger was killed on the railways of Great Britain last year. In the United States for the year just ended 345 passengers were killed and 683 were injured. That the difference is partly due to a lack of care is undeniable.

A dispatch states that "Filipinos are now awake to the importance of good roads." Some missionaries from Luzon would be a good thing in the United States.

Kentucky has to many counties. Take a few away and then the feud will end without any more trouble. Why? Because politicians with pulls will be scarcer.

Colleges should have a special chair of humor that theatre goers might have an opportunity to learn how to appreciate some of the jokes sprung in modern musical farces.

Speculators who have bet that corn would go down in price are consulting the weather man to see if a little warm weather can not possibly be arranged for.

Perhaps the democratic party can construct a platform for 1904 by pointing with alarm to the fact that the republicans have appropriated all the good issues.

Contractors in shipyards who break down in their obligations will not succeed in turning over Uncle Sam's unfinished war craft to the pawnbrokers.

Congratulations to the new king of Serbia based on considerations of piety fall to impress those who believe in the injunction: "Thou shalt not kill."

The Mississippi has receded below the danger line, but there is still 30 feet in the channel to back up the claims of St. Louis as a seaport.

The energetic farmers in the flood district who are replanting their bottom corn land with ninety day corn may yet make a banner crop.

Eight thousand a year for a thinking part such as vice president is not bad when you come to think of it.

The confederate who fired the first gun at Sumpter is just dead. That was easily the most expensive charge of powder on record.

This is a billion dollar country in both foreign exports and imports this year, and the exports keep about $400,000,000 ahead.

Servians just now are enjoying the unanimity of sentiment that results from a fear of assassination.

Now that Grover has again denied that fake interview he sits still and watches the bobber of his fish line go up and down and wonders if that old fish democracy will bite or not.

Alabama could not possibly have had any strikes with its system of peonage that it had. That was the only consolation.

Staid old Wilmington, Delaware, lynched a man night before last and now wonders how it all happened.

King Edward is very particular about just what shall be worn and what shall not at his court.

Is not amusing how the Pope cuts all predictions of the croakers short and lives on and on.

Wouldn't an automobile look funny on exhibition in a horse show.

Council meeting was held last evening.

PRSS COMMENT.
Madison Journal: All honor to Burr W. Jones and Judge Carpenter for their generous gifts of land to the city for playground purposes. The formal thanks of the council express the sentiments of all citizens. The plans presented before the city fathers last evening for the beautifying of the city are also premonitory of a lovelier Madison whose coming all will eagerly welcome.

Green Bay Gazette: For the editorial writer, as for the preacher of the gospel, the day of dogmatism has passed. The main subject of the editorial writer today should be to call attention to facts and their relation to each other and to the varied phases of life. To set men at thinking for themselves rather than force them to accept the thought of some other person.

Milwaukee Free Press: Rev. John Cauffman, of Brown county, so the report has it, is preaching every night to hundreds of people while he is sound asleep. This is such a startling innovation from the general run of things that it probably results in keeping the audience awake during the sermon.

Milwaukee News: It seems that the Milwaukee tannery owners are so confirmed in their refusal to arbitrate that they decline to arbitrate on their own terms. Maybe they would be willing to settle the strike if their employers would apologize and work nights without pay to catch up with the lost time.

Appleton Post: It may be added that Senator Charles is a tariff revisionist, for he so recently declared himself in a letter to Mr. Hazelton of Milwaukee. And this is one of the many reasons why he should and undoubtedly will be, re-elected.

Superior Leader: Postmaster General Payne would have wasted little time in getting at the bottom of the postal scandal if the postal department had been a street railway company under his management.

Menasha Breeze: It is remarked by a joker that La Follette is so hard after peace that he does not want Quarles in office. But, laying aside the joke we must say that Bob does not quarrel. He is for open fight.

La Crosse Press: Complaints by the Milwaukee Journal of the extravagance said to rule in Milwaukee county affairs establish the fact that the affairs is not in any of the deals.

A very silent old woman was once asked why it was she had so little to say. She replied that when she was a young girl she was very ill and could not talk for a long time. Less than a generation ago the saying, "Touch cold iron," was not only thought to keep away bad luck, but was commonly used by the boys in a Perthshire village to clear them from blame if anything got accidentally damaged or broken in boyish play. Let a neighbor's window get broken—accidentally, of course—and the boys would all make a rush for the nearest door knocker, scraper or any other piece of iron which happened to be near.

Robert Browning, who during his lifetime was a persistent visitor at art exhibits, said one day to a friend whom he met on such an occasion: "The Chinese ambassador is here. I thought, 'a brother of my own!'"

INSANE MAN HAS REGAINED REASON

Alfred Peaks, Who Married a Wisconsin Girl, Becomes Sane Again.

Many Jansville residents remember the beautiful Genevieve Pugh who visited friends here from time to time. Many will recollect her happy marriage to Alfred Peaks, the millionaire wall paper manufacturer, and her husband's sad affliction in which his mind gave way under the press of business. For eighteen months Mr. Peaks has been considered hopelessly insane and Mrs.
Peaks has had all the care and management of his business. Within the past week the beautiful summer home of the Peaks, near Greenwich, Conn., was burned to the ground and the eight-year-old daughter, Alla-vieve, died from burns received. The shock of the fire nearly prostrated
Mrs. Peaks, but strange to say restored the reason of Mr. Peaks. A cousin of Mr. Peaks is authority for this story and says that he has talked with the formerly demented man and that he is perfectly rational and that physicians attribute this to the shock received. Mrs. Peaks was a student at the university with the class of '92. Her home was in Ma-zomanie before her marriage.

TOBACCO MEN ARE RESTING

Little Work Being Done During the Past Week, Except Stemming.

This is the quietest summer, just now, that local tobacco men have experienced in two or three years. A few of the city warehouses have forces stemming or sorting, but most of them are now being cleaned and put in order for livelier times that are hoped soon to come. There is a little shipping being done to commission men but almost no large sales are reported. An occasional small retail transaction takes place.
At the Humrill warehouse the sorting force stopped work last week.

A force of about fifteen started stemming a few days ago at the Grundy warehouse.

Mrs. Isabella Morton
Mrs. Isabella Morton died at 9:15 this morning at her home, 31 Ruger avenue. The deceased was born in Kilnshire, Scotland, in the year 1844. Her husband, Robert Morton, died about four months ago. The family had resided for a number of years in the town of Johnstown having only last year moved to this city.
Two sons and two daughters are left to mourn, John and James Morton of Johnstown and Miss Jennie and Ellen of Jansville. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

THIRD WARD IS UP AGAINST IT

HAS FOUR CENTS IN THE CITY
TREASURY.

SECOND NEARLY AS BADLY OFF

First Ward Has Comparatively Ample Balance to Its Credit—Fourth and Fifth Next.

Exactly four cents represents the balance to the credit of the Third ward in the city funds.

While the fact is well known that one or two of the ward funds are in a penurious condition, the exact amount of their poverty is not known as was revealed by the queries of an alderman at last night's council meeting. The residents of the various wards probably have even less knowledge of their relative financial status. The following figures show the exact sum to the credit of each ward this morning, after the bills allowed last evening were deducted:

First ward $300 97
Second ward 48 98
Third ward 04
Fourth ward 276 18
Fifth ward 240 12

In actuality the Third ward is even more poverty stricken than the above figures indicate as several bills for labor in that ward are yet outstanding. For a time the Second ward fund was in nearly as deplorable a condition, but the transference

MODEL MARKET NOW OPEN

What is undoubtedly the most model meat market ever opened in this city is the W. T. Scofield shop at 18 North Main street. This location is the same one that Mr. Scofield has so successfully occupied during the past eight years. Three months ago the contractors commenced the remodeling of the block which included the rearranging of the entire first floor. New fronts were placed in the building giving plenty of light and fresh air.

But it is the interior of the shop
where a surprise awaits the public.
The furnishings are in light oak. A handsome steel ceiling offsets the walls, which are neatly painted in light gray. The ice box is a most commodious one and handsome mirrors give it a most handsome effect. A costly corn beef table topped with a solid marble slab is located on one side of the room near the large oak display table which is also marble top. The floors are in hard wood. Electricity and gas have been placed in the store. During the eight years that Mr. Scofield has been in business in Jansville he has secured a meat business second to none and in all portions of the city and county his friends are numbered by the score.

BLIND REUNION COMES TO CLOSE

INTERESTING SESSIONS ENDED
THIS AFTERNOON.

BUSINESS MEETINGS TODAY

Remaining Time Was Taken Up with Papers—Many Remain Until Tomorrow.

After an unusually successful reunion the alumni association of the State School for the Blind closed its sessions this afternoon. Many of the seventy graduates who have been spending this week at the state school in Monterey, do not plan to return to their homes until tomorrow. But the last meeting on the reunion program was held this afternoon. Business sessions occupied the greater part of the day.

Interesting Papers.
Aside from the business meetings,
which consisted of an informal council this morning and the decisive meeting this afternoon, there were several addresses on such subjects
as "What Is Success and How Is It Secured?" "Why Are the Blind Not More Successful in Teaching Music?"
"Domestic Usefulness," and "Farming." Among the speakers were Miss Elizabeth J. Curtis, Olaf Oleson, Miss Anna Davis, and Frank Harmon.

Concert Last Evening
One of the most pleasant features of the reunion was the concert last evening, in which about fifteen of the graduates and present instructors of the school participated. The readings, by Robert Barnes were of an especially high order. The audience was very cordially appreciative, and the relaxation from the more serious discussions of the reunion was highly enjoyed.

Development and Growth of the American Navy

Though Not Large, It Has Been Proven to Be an Efficient Fighting Force.

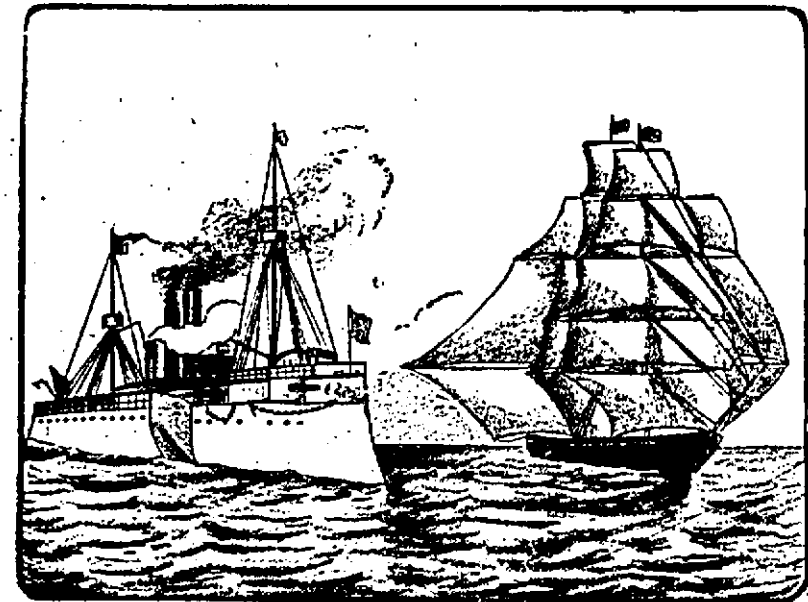

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT says we must increase our navy, and the thoughtless ask why should the government spend millions on adding improvements when we now rank well with the world's navies. It is true we hold fourth place (Great Britain, France, Russia, the United States), but if we would keep this position, to say nothing of bettering it, we must be up and doing.

And yet we certainly have cause for congratulation when we compare our present navy with the United States navy of 1880. In that year a noted American, responding to the toast, "Our Navy," thus alluded to it: "If the length of my reply is to be governed by the size of our navy, I have already said too much." The last quarter of a century has been marked by great changes in the relative strength of the navies of the world. The lesson we should learn from a survey of these changes, is that we cannot afford to get behind, and it is well for the nation that its head keeps reminding of the necessity for an adequate navy. In Italy, Crispi pointed out that the navy of his country in ten years had fallen from seventh to twelfth place; which startling information incited that government to set about the restoration of her navy. But Italy, with its now heavy handicap, will not soon be able to catch up. An exercised in designing" the modern battleships of the different nations. In the United States we now have at least ten shipyards that can contract for the building of a battleship, and two plants that can make armor; whereas only a few years ago, even after very considerable progress in steel and iron industries, we could ourselves provide no vessels for our navy. But it costs us 30 per cent. more to build a warship than it costs any European power, and 30 per cent. more to keep a vessel in operation.

It was in 1882 congress passed the first appropriation for our new navy and that year that an impetus was given to American shipbuilding. In the succeeding 20 years over 40 vessels were added to the navy, almost all of them entirely planned and built here, and it is calculated that this record will easily be distanced in the next few years, for in 1900 51 vessels either were in the process of building or were planned for. And now we build not only for our own navy, but also for the navies of Russia and Japan.

The American sailor gets more, if he does cost more, than sailors in navies generally; he has better food, better shelter and better pay. In the manning of a modern battleship as much depends on stoker and engineer as on the man behind the gun, about one-third the ship's force working beneath the protective deck, and it being necessary that worker in engine authority says our own period of superiority will be brief unless our naval expenditure for new construction is kept up to an inexorable annual average of from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000; that the United States must add to its 19 first-class battleships as many more in the next 10 years, or two by each congress.

This same authority, Talcott Williams, points out another need of the navy, namely, increase in the number of officers. While our national legislature increases its vessels, it makes almost no provision for adding to its officers—a policy directly opposite that followed by Germany, which for every ship it builds has already provided officers and men. Germany has decreased an annual increase to its navy for 20 years to come of 60 officers and 1,743 men; the United States congress has added but 100 new appointments to Annapolis, and that means there will be graduated from the institution only 16 more officers a year.

The total number of officers and seamen has been advanced from the 13,460 of 1895 to 25,000; a number equal to the force in each of the inferior navies of Italy and Japan, 5,000 less than that of Germany, and 14,000 below Russia's count.

Mr. Williams emphasizes the fact that a navy's success is dependent on three factors; ships, officers with men, and equipment; and shows that while our ships have been built as rapidly as needed, we do not have enough officers and our equipment has been insufficient. As he tersely phrases it: "Our fleet at the critical moment may be like a boller without steam."

Rear Admiral George W. Melville, engineer-in-chief, United States navy, declares the navy must be our best guarantee of peace, we must be powerful enough to inspire friendliness—or awe. This distinguished gentleman adds that it is the relative, rather than the actual, strength of a navy that gives one nation control.

In the last 15 years several nations have trebled their naval expenditures, one nation putting the financial estimates of its navy's needs at over $100,000,000. In this zeal to increase their navies it is prophesied, more than one nation may be led into bankruptcy; such a steady drain on a treasury if long continued would prove, save to the strongest, very disastrous. It is self-evident that the country with the deepest pocketbook has a great advantage.

In the building of naval vessels no one nation monopolizes construction secrets. "The exact science of the French, the profound thought of the German, the inventive faculty of the American and the experience and common sense of the Briton have been and boiler room possess courage and endurance. In the past, too, it was the Yankee's manner of handling his ship as well as the Yankee pluck that helped our navy; made possible its victories over Britisher and pirate.

The United States has much coastline to defend; the 6,000 miles of coast in continental possessions; widely scattered insular dependencies to protect; and, if the insistent Monroe doctrine is kept inviolate, much more coastline in Central and South America. In addition, there is our commerce on the high seas to be protected and extended—as we are not a "hermit nation." Surely, all making a responsibility demanding most careful provision.

CHARLES E. EASTE.

Wasn't Battered to His. It certainly was a poor show. Even the horn-handed ushers could not applaud loud enough to raise any semblance of enthusiasm on the part of the audience. Cold distrust was written on the faces of the crowd, and by the third act nearly every one in the house was hissing whenever the ushers applauded. One man who occupied a front row seat was observed to be viewing the performance with a certain gentle tolerance. One of his neighbors saw this and leaned over and said:

"Excuse me, sir, for addressing you, but I have noticed you are the only person in the house who has not hissed the show. Is the author a friend of yours?"

"No," replied the man. "I came in on a pass and do not feel at liberty to hiss. I'll sit through this act, and then if the performance does not improve I'm going out and buy a ticket so I can hiss just as much as I like."—N. Y. Sun.

Love-Making in Mexico. Mr. Carl Lumboltz has some interesting things to tell about his recent experiences among the American aborigines, but nothing is more curious than his account of the love making among the natives of northwest Mexico. There, he says, the courting is all done by the lady. The young people meet at the feasts, and there the damsel, who has fixed upon a member of the opposite sex whom she wishes to become her husband, tries to attract his attention by dancing before him, persistently keeping her back turned to ward him. Eventually she may sit down near him and pull his blanket and sing to him in a gentle, low voice. When she desires to bring matters to a focus she begins to throw pebbles at the chosen one. If he throws them back at her they are betrothed.

A Costly Adventure

(Original.)

When the Union Pacific railroad was finished to Laramie a line of coaches took its passengers southward to Denver. One evening the coach waited the arrival of the train; but, the station agent receiving a telegram that the latter was several hours behind time, the former was sent out with but two passengers, a rancher and his daughter. The girl had been east at school, and her father was taking her home. During the twilight the two enjoyed the scenery from the coach window, but when darkness came leaned back on the cushion and each fell into a doze.

Suddenly they were aroused by the crack of a rifle, the breaks were put on and the coach came to a stop. Then, after a few words spoken roughly to the driver, the coach door was thrown open and a masked man thrust in his head. In the darkness nothing but his form could be distinguished.

A masked man took the valuables of both, then said to the girl, "Have you nothing else for me?"

There was no answer. The girl was too frightened to answer.

"Well, then," continued the man, "I'll take your own sweet self."

At this the father went wild, begging and pleading for his child.

"Calm yourself, my dear sir," said the agent. "Your daughter shall come to no harm."

"What do you want with her?"

"Nothing except what she will herself wish. Come! I can't be fooling here."

And, taking the girl by the hand, he led her out of the coach. There was something in the man's voice that won her confidence, and her fear left her. He seemed strangely polite and tender hearted for a road agent. As soon as she had alighted he lifted her on to a horse furnished with a woman's saddle and, mounting himself, seized a leading strap and galloped away with her.

Meanwhile the Union Pacific train reached Laramie, and the passengers for Denver were provided with an extra coach. There were half a dozen passengers, including a Denver banker and his niece. Most of them were Denver people, acquainted with one another, and they were having a merry time before settling to sleep, when there was a hold up and they were ordered to alight, line up and deliver. One man did the work, though there were others in the background who did not show themselves. When the valuables had been collected the passengers were permitted to return to the coach. One, the niece of the Denver banker, Miss Frances Delaney, lagged behind and whispered to the road agent:

"What am I to do?"

"Do? Get into the coach."

"But I want to go with you."

"Oh, you do. Well, I reckon you or any other likely gal can do that. Come along."

When the coach started on the girl was missed by her uncle, the coach was stopped, a search was made, her name was shouted, but there was no Miss Delaney.

An hour later two mounted men, approaching one another on the Denver and Laramie road, each hearing the other's horse's hoofbeats, drew rein. Presently one called to the other:

"Who are you?"

"I'm Walter Blake of Denver. Who are you?"

There was some delay in the reply which came evidently of the consultation:

"I got a gal here who says she's made a mistake. She knows you. You were to have pretended to rob the Denver coach and carry her off to get her away from her guardian uncle. She thought I was you and wanted to come along. I didn't get no use for her."

"You don't say so! Thank heaven! Lucky meet! I robbed the wrong coach and took a rancher's daughter."

"Well, I tell you what you do. Turn over the proceeds, and I'll turn over your gal."

"I'm no robber."

"I am."

"Oh, I see."

"Come down with the dust."

Blake thought the matter over. If it were not for the two girls, one of whom he had kidnapped and the other had kidnapped herself, he might have either turned and run or fought. As it was, there was nothing to do but surrender not only the rancher's and his daughter's valuables, but every dollar he had with him, and this, since he had provided himself for a bridal trip, was considerable. Everything was given up, and Frances Delaney was permitted to ride forward.

"Stupid!" was her first word.

"You wrote you would be in the coach tonight. I didn't know there were two coaches."

There was little else spoken between the lovers till they and the rancher's daughter reached Denver, where Blake turned the latter, with many shamefaced apologies, over to her father and asked for an account of the property he had taken from the banker. When the account was paid and the amateur road agent figured up the amount the effort had cost him it seemed a pretty high price to pay for a wife whom he hadn't succeeded in kidnapping. Miss Delaney was so mortified and incensed over the matter that she turned a cold shoulder to her lover, whom her uncle now said it would be necessary for her to marry to save her good name. She remained resolute in her refusal to do so for a year; then, as Blake determined to take up his residence in San Francisco, she relented, glad to get away from the ridicule she found it impossible to live down in Denver.

LULU ROSS MEDGLEY

HOCH DER KAISER!

HOW UNCLE SAM WILL BE REPRESENTED AT KIEL.

Impressive Reception Arranged For Rear Admiral Cotton and the European Squadron—Festival Week at German Naval Station.

Rear Admiral Charles S. Cotton, commanding the European squadron, who will arrive at Kiel, Germany, with his squadron June 25 to take part in the festivities of "Kiel week," is assured of a warm welcome from the Germans. Emperor William, Prince Henry and Count von Bulow, chancellor of the empire, will take part in the entertainment of the American officers, and the Imperial Yacht club, the most exclusive in Germany, has made arrangements to give a dinner in their honor, at which the Kaiser will be present.

Kiel is one of the most important naval ports in the emperor's dominions. Here is the Naval university, called by the Germans the "Nelson factory," where more than 500 young officers are annually turned out for service on board the ships of the Kaiser's rapidly growing navy. It is the station of the German fleet in the Baltic and the center of all educational activity in the German navy.

"Kiel week" is similar to the English regatta week at Cowes, patronized by King Edward and the members of the royal family. During "Kiel week" the Imperial Yacht club, of which the Kaiser is a member, holds its annual regatta. Mr. I. H. Smith, Jr., of New York, who won the emperor's cup last year, has sent a new sloop to take part in this year's races. Another event of interest will occur on the second day, when a protected cruiser of a new and powerful type will be launched. Besides, there will be races by the boats' crews of the war ships of the various nations.

America will be further represented by Ambassador Charlemagne Tower, who deferred his vacation to the United States in order to be present at Kiel during the visit of Uncle Sam's ships, and by George V. L. Meyer, United States ambassador to Italy.

Rear Admiral Cotton will have as his flagship the fine battle ship Kearsarge.

MARINE ACADEMY AND IMPERIAL YACHT CLUB, KIEL. (The upper picture is that of Germany's Annapolis.)

and with her will probably be the cruisers Chicago, Albany and Cincinnati and the gunboat Machias.

The commander of the European squadron, Rear Admiral Charles S. Cotton, has had over forty years' experience in the United States navy. He is a native of Milwaukee, where his father was United States marshal in the fifties. The future admiral entered the Naval academy in 1858 and was graduated in 1862, just in time to take part in the civil war. Young Cotton was in command of a quarter deck battery on the old Minnesota when the Confederate ram Merrimac made her attack on the wooden fleet in Hampton Roads.

When the Monocacy conveyed the American minister, Mr. Foote, to his station in Korea when the Hermit Kingdom was opened up to the world in 1883, Rear Admiral Cotton was the officer in command.

During the Spanish war the rear admiral, then a captain, commanded the auxiliary cruiser Harvard, which rendered excellent service. He became a rear admiral in 1900, is just past his sixtieth year and is regarded as a most intelligent and highly capable officer.

THE HACKNEY HORSE.

A Type in Equine Flesh That Brings Top Prices.

Build and Action of the Genuine—How to Distinguish the Good and Bad in This Class of Horse.

Many a man admires a horse, and yet cannot tell anything exact about the style and conformation which pleases him. What is it that makes one horse worth $1,500 and another worth $100, though they are all the same age, size and weight? The horseman explains the situation in the words "conformation" and "action."

The most pleasing "action" to watch is the Hackney type. Fig. 1 shows two poor actions. "Short in Action" illustrates a horse with moderate style and speed. "A Daisy Cutter" (Fig. 2) is a horse without either of these qualities in any degree, one that shoves his feet along the ground instead of lifting them daintily like the wild deer of the forest.

In Figs. 3 and 4 the artist has depicted the free movements now characteristic of stylish Hackneys. The front leg moves out straight from the shoulder, while the foot turns up easily until it nearly reaches the inside of the shoulder at the final of each stride. For rear action the true type is that shown in Fig. 4. The angles are graceful in motion, free and easy, and the propulsive power great. It is this action which makes the typical and true Hackney, and makes of such horses the ready sellers which they are in every market where stylish horseflesh is appreciated.

As a general rule there are more animals defective in the back than in their fore action, and many a promising youngster has been relegated to the wrong side of the post just because it has failed in this, the primary feature of a harness horse. The reason why so much importance has been attached to good action, on the part of the breeder, is that good-looking horses with no action are a drug on the market, while a mean horse with no showy qualities beyond his action can always find a purchaser at a good price. It is action that sells. A hunting man, of course, regards true Hackney action as a thing to be avoided, but then the characteristics and the purpose of the two types of animals are so much at variance that his views have been moulded in a different school.

In Fig. 5 two defective styles are shown. One of the commonest defects of Hackney action is that of going wide. Apart altogether from its unsightliness, it is evident that the animal which does not keep its hocks close together has neither the propulsive power, nor are his legs calculated to stand the wear and tear of ordinary work for a lengthened period. Where this weakness is very pronounced, it is frequently the result of internal trouble. Another defect which is sometimes seen is what is known as the cow hock (Fig. 6); it is most unsightly when the animal is in a standing position. It is not, however, such a serious defect as the open hock, yet it very materially lowers the animal's chances in good company. The artist has sketched one or two other positions, and by a simple diagram shows how the correct angle of the hind legs (Fig. 7) may be ascertained.

The conformation of the horse has a great deal to do with the perfection or otherwise of its movements, and the horse, which is narrow in front and turns its toes (Fig. 6) in can never be expected to make a perfect display with such imperfect formation. Many a notable animal, which has figured prominently in prize lists, has suffered from this physical defect, which has just been sufficiently apparent to prevent entry into the first flight in the showing. Conversely the animal which turns its toes out is invariably open at the knees in his action, and that is a very ungraceful and reprehensible characteristic.

The Hackney is a beautiful animal, and is rapidly gaining ground as a show animal. Besides, a perfect Hackney will do excellent road work in spite of his flourishes, since there must be range as well as height in the action in order to satisfy modern ideals.

GENERAL RAILROAD NEWS

Milwaukee stockholders of the Wisconsin Central believe that the road will pay a dividend before the end of the present fiscal year. Directors of the road met in New York Monday.

What action to take in regard to excursion rates to national conventions already announced by the Chicago-St. Paul lines, is worrying traffic men of these lines at present. As $8 is now the regular fare between the Twin Cities and Chicago, this would make a rate for one way only $4 or $5.

One of the exhibits in the transportation building at the world's fair at St. Louis, will be a model railroad ticket office in full operation. Tickets to any part of the world may be bought.

The improvements now under way for the terminal company at St. Louis will aggregate $7,000,000.

The general offices of the Erie road has been moved from Cleveland to Chicago.

Engineer A. H. Shekey of the North-Western line returned to work today.

WERE MARRIED THIS MORNING

Miss Mary Klein and Frank Bier United in Marriage by Rev. Father Goebel.

This morning at eight o'clock Miss Mary Klein and Mr. Frank Bier were united in marriage at St. Mary's church. High mass was read and music was furnished by the church choir assisted by Lakes' orchestra. The Reverend Father Goebel conducted the ceremony and he was assisted by Father Olsen a former Janesville young man now assistant to Father Roach in Milwaukee, as deacon. Father James McMillan, of St. Patrick's church was sub-deacon. The Master of Ceremonies was Charles Bier, a brother of the groom and a theological student at St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee. Mr. O'Grady was thurifer. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Louis Bier, and Miss O'Rourke, of Chicago, was maid of honor.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and the happy couple left for Chicago on a morning train, where they are to make their future home. Mr. and Mrs. Bier are well known Janesville people and a large gathering of their friends was present to wish them joy.

Music Rendered Professor W. T. Thiele, musical director, had charge of the elaborate musical program for the high mass service. The music was beautifully rendered. The following pieces were sung by the choir, assisted by the orchestra: Mendelssohn's Wedding March; Kyrie, Gloria, Offertory, Sanctus, Benedictus and the wedding march for the Recessional. Miss Tessie Gibbons, the organist, played the accompaniments.

MAYOR DIMOCK'S PICTURE GIVEN

Ex-Mayor Richardson Presents Portrait of Prominent City Official of Long Ago.

Ex-Mayor Richardson has presented to the city a handsomely framed portrait of Edward L. Dimock, third mayor of Janesville, which was yesterday hung in the city council chambers.

In the spring of 1864, the second year of the city's corporate existence, Mr. Dimock was elected alderman from the second ward, and the following year he was elected mayor, serving one term. Subsequently he held the city clerkship for two terms, 1876 and '77, as well as other public offices.

When the several gifts were presented to him upon the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his marriage a friend made the statement, "In the upbuilding of this beautiful little city of the prairie it is not too much to say that you have done your full share; and when its history is written your name will occupy an honorable and conspicuous place upon its pages."

For five years Mr. Dimock was a director of the Milwaukee and Mississippi railroad, now the C. M. & St. P. He was prominently connected with the Janesville Gas works. He was a charter member and the first secretary of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company of Milwaukee. He was for many years one of the leading insurance men in this city.

CHARGE SHORT WEIGHTS IN SEEDS

Arthur Nellis Is Alleged To Have Cheated the Government Very Largely.

Washington, June 24.—Charges of short weight in the seeds furnished the department of agriculture appear in the testimony given before the Court of Claims against the New York Market Gardening association. Arthur C. Nellis, representative of the New York association, alleges the government owes him $18,000 on his contract for 1900-1901. Officials of the department of agriculture assert that Nellis gave orders that all packages of seed should be made up short in weight; that the seed was delivered two months after the time specified in the contract, and that no penalty was enforced and that cheap and improper paper was used.

Testifies Against Employer. Charles Kingsley, a foreman under Nellis, in his testimony filed in the Court of Claims, says he received orders from Nellis to "make all packets short in weight" and that he did so. Although two or more government inspectors were constantly present to see that the contract was fulfilled, no attention was paid by them to the alleged abuses.

One specification is that Nellis labeled splash seed costing 6 cents a pound "best seed," which costs 16 cents. In the year covered by the litigation congress appropriated $108,574.12 for seeds and Nellis was paid about $90,574.39. These are the seeds representatives and senators receive from the government for distribution.

TO PROSECUTE M'SWEENEY.

Is Accused of Extracting Public Documents From Ellis Island.

Washington June 24.—The case of Edward F. McSweeney, former assistant commissioner of immigration at New York, was before the President again. By the President's direction, on Mr. McSweeney's request, United States Attorney Burnett of the southern district of New York heard McSweeney's explanation of the charges against him of abstracting public records and documents of the United States immigration station at Ellis Island.

General Burnett's report holds that McSweeney's action comes within the laws which punish the embezzlement or unlawful withdrawing of official records and documents; that the accused was given the fullest opportunity to explain and that his explanations were not satisfactory and did not meet the charges, which are fully sustained by the facts brought out during the hearing. After a conference between the President and the attorney general, and upon the latter's recommendation, it has been directed that the prosecution proceed.

PROBE INDIAN CLAIMS.

Kiowa and Comanche Affairs Are to Be Investigated.

Washington, June 24.—The President has ordered a thorough investigation of the affairs of the Kiowa and Comanche Indian reservation in Oklahoma and has appointed Francis E. Leupp of this city to make the investigation. The investigation is based on charges made by certain Kiowa Indians, including Delos K. Lone Wolf, a Kiowa, living at Hobart, that of the 2,759 allotments made to persons purporting to belong to the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache tribes, under the act approved June 6, 1900, a number of the allotments were illegal and more allotments were made than there were Indians.

The charges are old ones, and accuse Indian Inspector Nessler and Major James F. Randlett, the agent for the Kiowas, and formerly in charge of the Utah Indians in Utah, of connivance in irregular payments. Major Randlett is one of the oldest officers in the service.

The manager of a concert given in a small town, instead of putting "not transferable" on the tickets, posted a notice on the door: "No gentleman admitted unless he comes himself." Youth's Companion.
